INTRODUCTION

ALBERT FRANKLIN GANIER, SR. PHOTOGRAPH COLLECTION

The Albert Franklin Ganier, Sr. Photograph Collection (MSS ac. no. 89-114a) and it’s addition (MSS ac. no. 91-217) consists of the personal photographs of Albert Franklin Ganier, Sr. (1883-1973), a noted civil engineer, historian, ornithologist and long time resident of Nashville, Tennessee. This collection contains approximately eleven hundred items and numerous photographs of various field trips of the Tennessee Ornithological Society (of which Ganier was a co-founder); old residences and buildings located within the State of Tennessee and the Southeast; the Great Smoky Mountains National Park; Reelfoot Lake State Park and Samburg, Tennessee; “The Narrows” located in Cheatham County, Tennessee; Standing Stone State Park located in Overton County, Tennessee; Mammoth Cave National Park, Kentucky, and of research into the story of Alvin C. York, conducted for Warner Brothers Studio in preparation for the filming of the motion picture, Sergeant York. Ganier also included several interesting prints of his travels to California in 1939 for the American Ornithological Union meeting, and visited the San Francisco Exposition while there. Numerous photographs of birds and bird habitats are included, giving verification to the testimonial of Ganier as the “John James Audubon of Tennessee.” An interesting print relating to the steamboat wharf in Nashville, Tennessee, ca. 1907 is included in this collection. Several photograph negatives of the Ganier family are also in this collection.

This collection was processed by David R. Sowell, Assistant Archivist, Tennessee State Library and Archives, and was donated by Dr. Wintfred L. Smith, Professor of Biology, University of Tennessee at Martin.

The extent of this collection is one linear foot. This collection contains approximately one thousand items.

Single photocopies of unpublished photographs in the Albert Franklin Ganier, Sr. Photograph Collection (1900-1955) may be made for purposes of scholarly research.
BIOGRAPHICAL NOTE
Albert Franklin Ganier, Sr.

1883 Born September 9 near Vicksburg, Mississippi.

1908 Graduated with a degree in civil engineering from Purdue University; hired same year as an engineer of design for the Nashville, Chattanooga, and St. Louis Railway (NC&StL).

1912 Married Anna Eastman of Nashville; two sons and one daughter.

1915 Co-founded the Engineers Association of Nashville; served as it’s president in 1924.

Co-founded the Tennessee Ornithological Society in Nashville; serving as president 1922-23, 1930-31, and 1942-46; also served as editor of the TOS’s official publication, The Migrant, from 1935-39, and 1942-46. Ganier served as the Society’s curator for many years.

1918 Elected as secretary to the Wilson Ornithological Society, and further served as it’s president from 1924-26.

1933 Published A Distributional List of the Birds of Tennessee, and Waterbirds of Reelfoot Lake.

1940 Appointed by Governor Prentice Cooper as adviser, consultant with Warner Brothers Studios during it’s visit to Jamestown, Tennessee in preparation for the filming of the motion picture, Sergeant York.

1946 Co-founder of the Nashville Children’s Museum, serving on it’s Board of Directors for over ten years.

1954-56 Served as the president of the Tennessee Historical Society.

1955 Served as chairman of the Board of Directors of the Belle Meade Mansion, and supervised the restoration of it’s grounds.

1964 Charter member of the Middle Tennessee Conservancy Council, and worked to locate the original location of the Natchez Trace’s final segment in Tennessee.

1966 Received the Governor’s Award from the Tennessee Conservation League.

1973 Died in Nashville, Tennessee.
1978 Monument erected in the Radnor Lake State Natural Area, Davidson County, in honor of Albert Franklin Ganier, Sr.
The Albert Franklin Ganier, Sr. Photograph Collection consists of the personal photographs of Albert Franklin Ganier, Sr. (1883-1973), a noted civil engineer, historian, and ornithologist. This collection contains numerous photographs of various field trips of the Tennessee Ornithological Society (of which Ganier was a co-founder), old houses and buildings located within Tennessee and the Southeast, of research into the story of Alvin C. York, conducted for Warner Brothers Studio in preparation for the filming of the motion picture, Sergeant York. Ganier also had several interesting prints of his travels to California in 1939 for the American Ornithological Union meeting, and visited the San Francisco Exposition while there. Numerous photographs of birds and bird habitats are included, giving evidence to the reference of Ganier as the “John James Audubon of Tennessee.” An interesting print relating to the steamboat wharf in Nashville, Tennessee, ca. 1907 is included in this collection. Several photograph negatives of the Ganier family are also in this series.

As this collection was processed, it became apparent that a number of either photograph prints and/or negatives were missing from the original acquisition. Therefore, a special numbering system has been devised in order to assist any researchers in this collection. The legend for the contents of this series is as follows:

GAN000 This indicates that a photograph print and corresponding negative are available.

*GAN000 This indicates that a photograph print is available, but lacks a corresponding negative.

GAN000C This indicates a copy of the photograph print or negative.

GAN000PC This indicates that the item is a postcard.

GAN000N This indicates a photograph negative.
