INTRODUCTION

The Merle R. Eppse Papers (1882-1963) focus on Merl Raymond Eppse (1893-1967), educator, historian, and businessman. Merle R. Eppse of Nashville, TN donated the Merl R. Eppse Papers.

The materials in this collection measure approximately 46 linear feet. There are no restrictions on the materials.

Single photocopies of unpublished writings in the Merle R. Eppse Papers may be made for purposes of scholarly research.

SCOPE AND CONTENT

The Merl R. Eppse Papers, containing approximately 20,000 items, span the period 1882-1963. The collection consists of account books, clippings, correspondence, insurance papers, land records, legal documents, notebooks, printed materials, writings, and several miscellaneous items. The collection allows the researcher the unique opportunity to view the multi-faceted career of an African American educator, historian, and business leader.

The major portion of the collection consists of correspondence dating from Eppse's early years at Drake University in 1927 to his retirement in 1961. The correspondence comprises three major parts. One section documents his business concerns. Eppse was, for several years, director of Greenwood Cemetery and was on the board of directors for the National Educational Publishing Company, an early Black publishing company located in Nashville. Another part of the correspondence concerns Eppse's activities in the Christian (Disciples of Christ) Church. Eppse was an important leader in the Christian Church as the correspondence indicates. Black churches played a pivotal role in the civil rights movement in the United States. This correspondence may help trace the beginnings of the civil rights movements in the 1940s and 1950s. A final portion of the correspondence covers his role as an educator. Part of this correspondence concerns his position as chairman of the Tennessee A & I Department of History and his deep involvement in various educational societies, such as the American Association of Social Science Teachers in Negro Colleges and the American Society for the Study of Negro Life and History. Also included is important correspondence from W.E.B. DuBois, Charles S. Johnson, Carter Woodson, and W. C. Handy.

The account books and records deal with the several businesses and institutions with which Eppse was associated. In the collection are account books for Greenwood Cemetery, the History Study Club, and the National Educational Publishing Board. In a similar vein are receipts, ledgers, and financial documents for these institutions. Although not nearly complete in scope the collection also includes accounts for the Bethlehem Center, The Christian Plea newspaper, the Nashville Business Institute, and the National Christian Missionary Convention.

Under the category titled "associations" are brochures and other printed materials dealing with Eppse's various activities, such as the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History, the Association of Social Science Teachers in Negro Colleges, the National Convention of Disciples of Christ, the Crusade for Freedom, the National Christian Missionary Association, and the Negro Business Institute among others.

The photographs, reprocessed in October 2022, mostly relate to Tennessee Agricultural & Industrial State College (now Tennessee State University) and the History Study Club founded by Eppse during his tenure there. Various functions at Tennessee A & I from graduations to dances as well as sports are represented. A set of photographs depict the groundbreaking ceremony for the Preston Taylor Homes, an early housing project built by the Metro Housing Authority. Some photographs are motion picture stills highlighting famous African American actors, singers, and performers. The sports photographs (Box 63, folder 89) contain images of Shannon Little (Tennessee A & I football player), Louise Gibson (Tennessee A & I women's basketball player), Boid Buie (Tennessee A & I men's basketball player), Cleveland Fisher (Tennessee A & I men's basketball player), the Douglas High School (Oklahoma City, Oklahoma) basketball team, the Booker T. Washington School (Cushing, Oklahoma) basketball team, the Pearl High School (Nashville, Tennessee) basketball team, the Booker T. Washington School (Ashland, Kentucky) basketball team, the Horse Cove Colored High School (Horse Cove, Kentucky) basketball team, the Walker Consolidated High School (Magnolia, Arkansas) basketball team, the Tennessee A & I boxing team, and the Porterville Padres baseball team (farm club of the Pacific Coast League San Diego Padres).

After reprocessing, non-photographic items (previously included with photographs) are housed in their own descriptive folders in boxes 62 and 64. These materials include a biographical sketch, a book cover mockup, broadsides (several related to Negro History Week), a calendar, a calling card, various photographs clipped from publications, ephemera, a faculty information form, a fan with a photograph of "Ronnie" Parks as an infant, a membership card for Don McNeill's Breakfast Club, negatives (Tennessee A & I), postcards, and publications (including booklets, pamphlets, and newspapers). It should be noted that the ephemera folder (Box 62, folder 18) contains a souvenir print of artwork by Mary Belle de Vargas (1902-1946), a well-known artist from Natchitoches, Louisiana. Born without hands or arms, Mary Belle used her legs, feet, and toes to paint and draw. Another notable item is an issue of the "Birth Control Review," dated June 1932 (Box 64, folder 53). It includes an overview of Margaret Sanger's address to the U.S. Senate Judiciary sub-committee in May of 1932 as well as articles by W.E.B. DuBois, Charles S. Johnson, George S. Schuyler, M. O. Bousfield, Elmer A. Carter, S. J. Holmes, Constance Fisher, W. G. Alexander, and Walter F. Wilcox.

Printed materials in the collection are copies of brochures and publications concerning the civil rights movement, education for African American youths, and international relations. The fine collection of printed materials is an excellent point to begin a study of American social history, particularly the civil rights movement in the 1950s. Related to this are copies of various speeches in the collection.

Other categories in the collection are the Eppse school notebooks, newspaper clippings dealing with civil rights and historically Black colleges and universities, eulogies, land records, and several lists.

The Merl R. Eppse Papers represent an important contribution to the study of the life and works of an African American in a white-ruled society, and the development of Black Nashville.
