SCOPE AND CONTENT

There have been three Banks of Tennessee. The first Bank was chartered on November 20, 1811 (Chapter 79, 1811, Acts of Tennessee). The principle bank was located in Knoxville, with branches in Clarksville, Columbia, and Jonesborough. Judge Hugh Lawson White was the first president, serving from 1811 to 1827, and Luke Lea served as cashier. By 1821 branches had been established in Carthage, Franklin, and Nashville. The first Bank was not controlled by the state, and in 1841 when its charter ended the bank was closed. No record of how the bank finished its business is known to exist.

The second Bank of Tennessee was chartered in Chapter 7 of the 1820 Acts, and was state owned and controlled. Its principle bank was in Nashville and a branch bank was located in Knoxville. One means of providing capitol for the new institution was established in the 1826 Acts, Chapter 39, wherein money from land sales in the Hiwassee District and the land south of the French Broad and Holston Rivers went to a common school fund. Money was then loaned out from this fund. The 1831 Acts, Resolution 17, directed the "old" bank to pay the "new" bank $20,000.00, which had been deposited in the "old" bank, by the state. The second bank was abolished by Chapter 1 of the 1832 Acts, leaving a large debt.

The third Bank of Tennessee was established by Chapter 107 of the 1838 Acts, with branches in Athens, Clarksville, Columbia, Memphis, Rogersville, Shelbyville, Somersville, Sparta, and Trenton in 1839. This bank operated at a deficit as did its predecessor. In February 1862 the bank relocated in Chattanooga due to the advance of the Federal Army. In 1863 the records and capital were moved to Griffin, Georgia, and later in the war to Greensboro, South Carolina, and Augusta, Georgia. The records and capital were seized by the Federal Army in 1865, and turned over to the Governor and state officers. The bank was abolished in 1869.

The records consist of performance bonds, schedules of bonds, statements of condition, court cases, a letter concerning the removal of records from wartime Nashville, bills, bonds, notes issued and redeemed, material relative to the sinking fund, board minutes, names of boards of directors, material on the common school fund, check ledgers, discount credit books, cash books, daily ledger, a daily journal, two letter books, an exhibit from a law suit, and certificates and registers of warrants. Due to poor penmanship and time some of the names on these documents are illegible and are not indexed.

In addition to the state banks, this record group also contains some material on the following banks: Agricultural Bank of Tennessee, Bank of America, Bank of Athens, Bank of Chattanooga, Bank of Claiborne, Bank of Commerce, Bank of Dandridge, Bank of East Tennessee, Bank of Nashville, Bank of Paris, Bank of West Tennessee, Farmers Bank of Tennessee, First National Bank of Chattanooga, First National Bank of Nashville, Fourth National Bank of Nashville, Bank of Jefferson, Bank of Knoxville, Bank of Memphis, Bank of Middle Tennessee, Ocoee Bank, People's Bank, Planters Bank of Tennessee, River Bank, Tennessee National Bank at Memphis, Union & Planters

Bank, Union Bank of Tennessee, Union Bank of the State of Tennessee, Buchs Bank, Citizens Bank, City Bank, Commercial Bank of Tennessee, Exchange Bank of Tennessee, Farmers & Merchants Bank of Memphis, Memphis City Bank, Merchants Bank, Nashville Bank, Northern Bank of Tennessee, Southern Bank of Tennessee, Southwest R.R. Bank of Charleston, Tennessee Savings Institution, Traders Bank, Yeatman Woods & Co. Bank.

Of particular interest is the correspondence relating to the dividends and interest earned on Bank stock owned by the Common School Fund, and of the money secured by it through the sale of land in the Ocoee District.

Series Eight (8), the Recommendations for Bank Directors and Locations is very informative in regard to the economic situation in the several communities involved. Each competing community listed its manufacturers and produce, and described its trading and business interests in an attempt to win a branch office. For this reason these files are of value for local and economic historical research.
