Administrative/Biographical History

The history of the Department of Transportation, according to the Tennessee Blue Book, began in 1915 with the creation of the State Highway Commission. At that time, the state system included less than 5,000 miles of roads. By 1994, the Tennessee road system stretched 84,852 miles. In 1923, the commission restructured and became the Department of Highways and public Works. The agency's name was changed to the Department of Transportation in 1972 by an act of the General Assembly when it incorporated all modes of transportation.

Commissioner Jimmy Evans, who served as commissioner of the Department of Transportation from 1987-1990 during the McWherter administration, was a former owner and president of Pioneer Contracting Company in his hometown of Dyersburg, Tennessee. He was born in 1932 in Jackson, Tennessee, but grew up in Paris where he was captain of the Grove High School baseball and basketball teams. He was drafted by the St. Louis Cardinals but was prevented from pursuing a big-league career because of a back injury. He received a bachelor's degree in business administration from Lambuth College and a law degree from Vanderbilt. He was a past president and member of the Tennessee Roadbuilders Association, and was a member of the Dyersburg Board of Education. Evans died of cancer on December 7, 1992. David H. Wells was appointed the interim commissioner on December 14, 1992 until the position was filled by Commissioner Carl Johnson.

Mr. Carl Johnson became commissioner on December 28, 1992 and served until October 21, 1994. He was a native of Florida and held a bachelor's degree in Business Administration from the University of Tennessee, Knoxville where he played football. Following graduation, he worked in the transportation industry in Tennessee for 12 years in various management positions. He was named Commissioner of the Tennessee Economic and Community Development in 1987 and served until 1991
